DETAILED ACTION

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 5/15/2006 has been entered.

Response to Amendment

2. The cancellation of claims 1-18 and the addition of new claims 19-27 is acknowledged and accepted.

Claim Objections

3. Claim 19 is objected to because of the following informalities: "wherein" should be inserted between "terminal" and "said" on line 14; and "disconnecting" should read "disconnects" and "connecting" should read "connects" on line 15. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

4. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Art Unit: 3762

5. Claims 19-27 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as based on a disclosure which is not enabling. The means/method by which the grounding means operates to switch from high to low impedance critical or essential to the practice of the invention, but not included in the claim(s) is not enabled by the disclosure. See In re Mayhew, 527 F.2d 1229, 188 USPQ 356 (CCPA 1976). The “means” which are part of the grounding circuit (claim 19, line 13) is not enabled because there is no functional or structural limitation to define the “means” (i.e. what is it a means for?), and since it is unclear how the grounding means operates to switch from high to low impedance. This creates a gap in the critical elements which enable the grounding means to create the low impedance and high impedance paths, and to know when this should occur. The specification on page 9 and Figure 4 show a sensing means to make this occur. It is suggested to include the subject matter of claim 21 into claim 19 to remedy this gap in essential elements.

6. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

7. Claims 19-27 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. In regards to claim 19, “means” on line 13 is vague because it is unclear what the “means” does. Also, the examiner is requesting the applicant, under 37 CFR 1.75, to list the element from the specification corresponding to the “means”. Additionally, “it” on line 20 is vague because it is unclear to what “it” refers. Lastly, “described as” of claim 24 is vague because it is unclear whether the grounding circuitry actually "is suitable" or only "described as suitable". It is suggested to omit "described as".
